

Top 10 Lessons YOU Can Learn From Superheroes

A comic book illustration of Superman flying over a city. He is shown from the waist up, wearing his iconic blue suit with a red 'S' on a yellow shield, a red cape, and a yellow belt with a silver buckle. He is looking down towards a golden globe on a building that has 'DAILY' written on it. The background shows a dense cityscape with various buildings.

#10 Superheroes Do Not Seek Glory... But They Get it Anyway

Don't do it because you want the attention.
If you do it right,
you'll get it anyway.

#9. Superheroes Accomplish Huge Feats

The same effort it takes to start a lemonade stand or college club, is the same raw effort it takes to change the world. Your goal is not to build a product or get traffic... Your goal is to accomplish the most amazing feat imaginable. Make the Product, Save the World.

#8. Superheroes Help Others

Superheroes help people by solving problems. Startups should be obsessed NOT with themselves, but with how they are going to help other people and solve their issues.

#7. Superheroes' True Strength Comes From Their Character

No matter how super you think you are, your strength comes from your character not your talent. Be courageous, be respectful, be honorable, be selfless.

#6. Superheroes Are the Best at What They Do

Flash is the fastest and we all know it... If you're the back end developer, you are the best developer in the world, and everyone on your team knows it. Let great talent excel in areas where their superpowers are most needed.

#5. Superheroes Never Give Up

Like Batman, you have to keep pressing on to the very last breath. Challenges are overcome by wholeheartedly committing to unrelenting persistence.

LET BRIAR GO,
CARNAGE!

#4. Superheroes Always Get the Job Done

There are no excuses if you don't save the girl from the burning house. There are just results, not reasons, you either save the day or you don't. Gray area is for Kafka not comic heroes.

#3. Superheroes Are Crystal Clear of their Purpose

Captain Marvel may be a cheeseball, but he knows what he stands for. Startups die when they are not clear on their mission.

#2. Superheroes Can Do it By Themselves But Are More Powerful in Teams

#1. All Superheroes are members of Toastmasters International

Become the Speaker and Leader you want to be.